Keep tellin' the Story...

John McKnight said that a friend once told him that a prophet is someone who has everything backwards.

When I was a kid, I remember having backwards races with my brothers and others in the neighborhood. We would have "opposite days" when everything we said was the opposite of what we meant. Perhaps approaching Lent as a time of going backwards is the right spirit.

Jesus seems to be urging his followers (and others) to reverse the way we see things. Jesus eats with tax collectors and sinners -- shouldn't he be eating with the good religious folks? Jesus heals someone on the Sabbath (in the synagogue even!) in opposition to the ways in which the rules were laid out.

What are the ways in which we lay out the rules that we could use to move backwards from. In the beatitudes, Jesus says it is the poor who will inherit the realm of God. He says the hungry would be satisfied. He said those who weep will be those who laugh.

One of the biggest reversals Jesus pulled was when he said that "whoever would be the greatest among you must be the servant of all." And then later said, "no longer do I call you servants but friends." (In the spirit of this Winter Olympics, I would like to call this the very difficult double reversal!)

One of the many things I celebrate about our life together around Broadway is the way in which we celebrate the backwardness of Jesus. We spend our time watching for where the blind see, the deaf hear, and the lame leap for joy. Don't those sound backwards?

I've been hearing about ways in which that happens in the world outside our walls, as well. One of the more interesting stories I've heard lately is about the school systems that are having excellent results by requiring their teachers to visit their students in their homes. The results have been in the form of better school scores and more involvement from others in the students' homes with the school. When we do things outside of our doors that we usually do inside of our doors, and vice-versa, the whole world turns upside-down!

Backwards Lent

During Lent, what might you do that shows the backwardness of the Gospel? What do you usually do inside that you could do outside? What do you do outside that you could do inside?

I have an invitation (for Holy Week) in that regard. On Good Friday, we worship by taking a Stations of the Cross Walk through our neighborhood leaving Broadway at 10 o'clock and arriving at North United Methodist Church by 12 noon. We will stop along the way and pray at places of hope and places of sadness. It's a good way to get ready for the ultimate backwards movement from Good Friday to Easter.

Keep tellin' the Story,

Rev. Mike Mather

Broadway Welcomes Dr. Philip Amerson

FORMER PASTOR TO PREACH AT BROADWAY MARCH 7th, 2010

From January 1st, 1986 to January 1st, 1992, Dr. Philip Amerson was the senior pastor at Broadway United Methodist Church. His laughter, generosity of spirit, and innovative and passionate commitment to ministry in the city were a perfect combination for Broadway and its rich history. Dr. Amerson presided at Broadway as we built on our historic openness and expanded it for a new generation. The Mission Statement that we recommit ourselves to each week in worship was crafted during those years. Today, Dr. Amerson serves Christian ministry in another capacity as the President of Garrett-Evangelical Theological School at Northwestern University.

On Sunday, March 7th, we will celebrate Dr. Amerson's ministry at Broadway and around the globe. Dr. Amerson will preach, and we will take up a special offering to support the creation of a scholarship in the name of Dr. Philip and Dr. Elaine Amerson for students who will attend Garrett and be shaped by the extraordinary example and faithfulness of their witness to the Good News of the Gospel for ALL people. Please join us not only in worship that day but for a celebration light lunch and special entertainment following the 10:45 a.m. worship service. You will have a chance to visit with Dr. Amerson and thank him for the legacy that we here at Broadway continue to enjoy and for the ways in which he and this congregation continue to invest in faithful and creative leaders for the Christian church in the world through the fine education at Garrett.

Bring your questions and your Bible!

See you there!

It is a service that begins in the Cook Island, then New Zealand and throughout the various time zones by members of many different Christian Churches. UMW News...

NEW DATE! JOIN US FOR A DAY OF PRAYER AND SELF-DENIAL

So what does your home look like? Bring a picture of the place where you live or an inside photo, if you prefer, as we talk about property that makes mission possible and the missionaries that populate those properties. Maybe your photo will be a winterscape of your home, or perhaps just a rocker in front of the fireplace, or a view of a quilt wall hanging. Is your grandchild in the picture? Or your mom?

United Methodist Women (and perhaps a few men) will gather Saturday, March 13th at 9:30 a.m. until noon in the Church Parlor for Broadway's Day of Prayer and Self-Denial to hold up our missionaries and our missions in prayer. In this way, we actually learn what our world-wide family is doing in mission and their needs. Denying ourselves a bit, we give to these ministries. This year, we will each send a card, a note, or a letter to someone in the mission field, using the Prayer Calendar. Some of us will choose that person because we share the same birthday; other may choose a missionary because of what she does or the place he or she serves. That missionary may be a deaconess who serves in Indianapolis or a mission couple who serve in Senegal, Cambodia, or Mongolia. Wherever they serve, they have needs to feel connected with us. And wherever they are, they serve in a property -- a place of worship, a school, a clinic, a hospital.

Come join us as we create connections with those sisters and brothers in Christ who have been called to serve in the mission field. If you have questions, please contact Phyllis Newton at (317) 255-8116.

Interesting Facts from the Green Team

GREEN TEAM CHIEF, RANDY FICKLIN, SHARES INFORMATION ABOUT PHANTOM ELECTRICAL LOADS

When you turn something off, it might not be off. Say what? Many of our newest electronic appliances and toys are actually in standby mode when we turn them "off." This is a design feature to provide us the convenience of time -- the time of not waiting for internal components to warm up. This convenience costs us money and reduced air quality.

Electronic devices with clocks, instant-on features, indicator lights, and digital and mechanical light timers all consume electricity when turned off. This is known as the phantom electrical load and can draw from 2 to 10 watts.

For your sensitive electronics, purchase a surge protected power bar with a toggle switch. When you are away or not planning to use the devices for a few days, turn this switch off. You'll be amazed at how much you can save -- money and the environment. This suggestion is fantastic for your computer and its peripherals, your television, stereo, and CD/DVD player! It's very convenient before a lightening storm strikes.

Be aware that unplugging certain devices may reset programmable options and timers. Being practical, consider leaving a VCR plugged in -- we all know how much of a pain it can be to reprogram!

Next time you're shopping for a new electronic device or appliance, look for ones with energy-saving features, which can help reduce these phantom loads. Some are even marked with an Energy Star label. These are your best bets for saving electricity and reducing greenhouse gas, smog, and emissions of other harmful pollutants.

Employment Opportunity

Recruiting for jobs with the 2010 U.S. Census is happening now! The 2010 Census is offering testing/recruiting sessions in your area for Census Takers and other jobs paying from $10.00 to more than $15.00 per hour with mileage reimbursement. Great full and part-time temporary positions with flexible hours are currently available. Call (866) 861-2010 for information on testing/recruiting sites, dates and times. Informational materials are available in the church office, and you may also download a practice test to help you prepare by visiting www.2010censusjobs.gov. Rather Like

I'll stand behind a righteous man who's never standing still
He tells me if it's normal
Then there's something else that's ill.
Out onward way I'd rather be Here's something that He likes a chocolate covered raisin or yet a chocolate covered bike.
It's funny when he tells it got me smiling ear to ear
Sojourner truth or Malcolm saying something I want to hear
Sometimes it hurts because it's true
I'm never led astray.
